

Guitar Lake

Hot Coffee On A Cold Morning

We woke up to a clear and cold morning. The sky is crystal clear and the wind is chilly. I had to put on my gloves because my hands were getting numb. All the mountains around us have snow fields, and the wind picks up their chill. Hot coffee sure taste good this morning!

We will probably long for some of this chill about noon today as we grind our way up Mt. Whitney under the alpine sun.