Nature's Player Piano

From the top of a mountain pass you are always treated to a vista of mountains, lakes and valleys that stretch out as far as you can see. I often think of them as a topological music map – like a huge roll for mother nature's player piano. Just looking at the scene I can see tension and release, dynamics and harmony. Looks like music to me!

If you could play this huge roll, what would it sound like? I bet it would be exciting music - maybe like a Scott Joplin rag!
