

Don't Take Yourself Too Seriously

I used to play a lot of rest home gigs. I played the guitar and sang all the old songs that they remembered and loved. Usually it turned out to be a singalong. What fun! What a privilege it was to serve these wonderful people!

At a recent gig there was a lady sitting in the front row. After every song she said, "You have such a beautiful voice." I was encouraged by that and said, "Well, thank you very much. I appreciate that."

After my set was over one of the residents got up to play a few songs and he was dreadful! His guitar was out of tune and he sang off key!

After his first song the lady in the front row said, "You have such a beautiful voice."
